

Frequent pliers

Tool falls 7,000ft from a plane and hits house

Dropped in ... the heavy-duty tool fell from a plane about to land at Southend Airport

By STEPHEN MOYES

Published: 14 hrs ago

20

A MUM froze in terror as a wrench tore through her roof and smashed into her lounge — after falling 7,000ft from a plane.

Traumatized Shirley Watts, 48, feared the tool could have killed her and son Leo, eight.

Skyfall ... the wrench smashed through tiles

She said: "I was in my bedroom when there was the most almighty noise.

"I peered into the lounge and there was a massive hole in the ceiling and the wrench had appeared."

Lucky escape ... Shirley with son Leo, eight

It had been left in the undercarriage of an EasyJet plane coming into Southend Airport in Essex.

EasyJet ... apology

Mrs Watts, of Canvey Island, said: "I'm just grateful I'm not arranging a funeral."

Hole up ... damaged lounge ceiling

EasyJet told The Sun: “We have apologised to the homeowner and have paid for repairs to the house.”

Read more: <http://www.thesun.co.uk/sol/homepage/news/4905195/Wrench-falls-7000ft-from-a-plan-on-to-a-house-in-Canvey-Island.html#ixzz2RffEB1Eq>